UMCC serves as the primary referral center for pediatric and adult oncology services, providing care to adult patients of all ethnic/racial backgrounds, low-income and medically underserved patients, as well as providing a comprehensive multidisciplinary care network, including research and education. In 2011, UMCC received a 4-star rating, the highest rating that the NCI bestows on a cancer program, and was recognized as one of the best cancer programs in the U.S. The UMCC mission is to provide the best cancer care possible and to promote research, mentorship, education, and advocacy for patients and the community. The UMCC research portfolio includes over 350 separate projects underway at any time, including studies focusing on prevention, prevention/early detection, treatment, and palliation, with a particular focus on brain, breast, leukemia/lymphoma, lung, pancreas, sarcoma, and stomach cancer. The diverse basic, translational, and clinical research programs are supported by a highly developed core grant and other key shared resources to allow scientists in multiple disciplines to address difficult issues in cancer biology and translational research. The UMCC is a collaborative research environment with significant research faculty working in a wide range of basic and clinical research programs. Research in all of these programs
