when a movie or a song is downloaded online, it is a lot more efficient for the person downloading it to download the torrent file as well as the actual download. the reason for this is that the torrent file will have the actual list of the files and it wont be too difficult for the person downloading it to download it. another reason is that a torrent file can be shared among many people, where as if you download the file directly, you will have to download it and share it with just one person. the statute of limitations for downloading copyrighted material is three years, although it is very common for a claim to be made outside of the normal limitations. so, if the alleged download happened more than three years ago, it would be hard to prove. a good approach would be to get the ip address of the computer that is alleged to have downloaded the file and trace it back to the computer owner. if the computer owner was at the computer when the alleged download occurred, then you have a very strong case. if the computer owner was not at the computer when the alleged download occurred, then you have a harder case. regardless, the law firm will need to prove that the computer owner had the means and the opportunity to download the file. find the best torrent site to download suits season 3. the most popular and trusted torrent sites are: kickasstorrents, torrentz, torservers.com, and the pirate bay. always search for the website in the google search bar. make sure you review the reviews of the site before downloading. there is a way to download a torrent file without the need to have the matching ip address. there is a website that will change your ip address. this will ensure that the ip address is constantly changing, making it nearly impossible to trace. the site is private internet access and it is a free service. to sign up, you will need to input your email address, a password, and a captcha. the site will then give you a new ip address. the new ip address is then given out to you at a certain rate. the site also changes the ip address every 60 minutes. the only drawback is that the ip is only good for the amount of time that you pay for it. if you want to stop the ip address change, then you will need to pay a little more. private internet access can also help you to download and upload. you can download a torrent file and it will change your ip address. you can also upload torrent files and change your ip address. you can always change the ip address back.
